Predatory Publishing Example

I received the Call for Papers email below from an Indian publisher. I did not solicit them, they contacted me. It does not look professional and is signed without any contact information. Is this a predatory publishing scam?

The conference website states that “All registered papers will be submitted to International Journal of Emerging Technology and Advanced Engineering for possible publication after the internal check. Cabell’s Publishing Opportunities database and Ulrich’s have never heard of the journal by title or ISSN. The journal webpage says it is indexed by Google, Yahoo, Entire Web, Get Cited, Exact Seek and has a impact factor of 4.027 from ISRA but the ISRA website has never heard of the journal.

It will cost $180.00 to register your paper. Finally, the grammar and spelling on the journal website is poor with many errors.

Conclusion—PREDATORY PUBLISHER
